International Week: FUTURE LEADERS

7 – 11th of August, 2023
Wiesbaden, Germany

INFORMATION

Why participate?

- The world is changing rapidly. Today, more than ever, it calls for authenticity, transparency and leading from the heart.
- True qualities of leadership cannot be learned from a book and they do not only concern people in management positions. Leadership concerns all of us.
- To 'lead' your life successfully, you need to think, speak and act in coherence with who you are. True leadership challenges us to be authentic at all times.
- The objective of the international week is to learn how to lead yourself and others and helping others achieve their greatest possible potential. A potential that can be measured in personal wellbeing, and that will thus naturally result into professional success.

INFORMATION

What & how?

- The international week unites students from different universities all over the world and offers the possibility to develop your personal leadership qualities.
- You may not only expect a traditional teaching of leadership theories or concepts, but also a very personal approach to better understanding your unique leadership potential. The program is strongly personal development oriented and requires you to be open minded and ready to work on yourself.

OPINIONS

from previous years

»This experience has definitely been an eye opener as I walk through daily life. For example, the different leadership roles I take up maybe it be personal life, University or work I gained a lot through the week, I shared, opened up, made friends and most of all I got new impressions and thoughts on leadership. Thank you for that amazing opportunity.« Purity Gaitho (Nigeria/German)

»Another thing over the course of the Leadership Week was the fact of many things impacting my life as a result of this amazing opportunity. The camaraderie was evident among our group and it was beautiful. I will always be grateful for the friendships that I made while there.« Everett Wegge (U.S)

»In the end it was the right decision to participate in the international week not only for my education but also for myself and my self-confidence. I would recommend this week to anyone.« Luca Nett (Italian/German)

»It is not easy to put in words, how much this week, the content and the people have influenced the way I think, talk and feel about leadership.« Mario Truß (German)

»It was truly an international experience. I felt that by being around people of all cultures I was really able to grow as a person, and learn to think outside the cultural boundaries I did not even know I had. I learned so much about the people I was with and about myself. I would not change this experience for anything in the world.« Sara Ditchman (U.S.)
